

KING ALFONSO'S NARROW ESCAPE

THREE BULLETS ARE FIRED AT HIS HEART, BUT A TREMBLING HAND SAVES RULER.

THIRD ATTEMPT TO KILL HIM

Great Coolness Displayed By King, Who Prisoner Swears Is Certain To Be Slain Within A Year.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Madrid.—"Alfonso shall die within one year. That has been decided upon by men who are determined to free Spain of a tyrant and —

"Six men originally were chosen to kill him. I am the fourth.

"Two of my predecessors are dead, but how they died I shall not say.

"Two more will do Alfonso's every footstep when he is beyond the protection of his own palace.

"I aimed at Alfonso's heart, but hunger and cold—not fear—made me tremble like an aspen, and my bullets went wild."—Allegro, attempted slayer of the king of Spain.

For the third time in his reign King Alfonso narrowly escaped being the victim of an anarchist's attempt against his life. Three shots were fired at the king in the streets of the capital by a native of Barcelona, Rafael Sanchez Allegro, an anarchist, who was immediately overpowered.

Accompanied by his staff he was riding along the Calle de Alcalá, returning from the ceremony of swearing in recruits, when a man sprang from the sidewalk and seized the king's horse with one hand, presenting a revolver pointed blank with the other. The king, realizing the situation with lightning rapidity, dug his spurs into his horse, which reared violently. His quickness saved his life, the bullet, instead of burying itself in the king's breast, struck the horse on the neck, but so close was it that the king's left glove was blackened by the powder discharge. Before the assailant was able to pull the trigger again a secret service man sprang upon him. The two men fell to the ground, locked in each other's arms, struggling furiously. The assassin managed to free his revolver arm and fired two more shots in rapid succession, but the officer knocked his arm aside and the bullets flew harmlessly through the air. At the sound of the first shot, the king's staff forced its horses onto the sidewalk and made a ring around the assassin, who fought fiercely in the grip of four policemen before he was overpowered and handcuffed.

Harry Burleigh, a negro barytone, of whose singing the financier was especially fond, rendered the solo "Calvary."

TEN PASSENGERS MEET DEATH AND MANY ARE FATALLY INJURED.

Escaping Steam From Boiler Fills the Coaches, Hampering Passengers in Escaping.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Montreal.—Ten persons are dead and 25 were injured, many of them fatally, as the result of the derailment of an excursion train on the Montreal-Chambly branch of the Central Vermont railway, about four and a half miles out of St. Lambert. The train was carrying about 700 passengers, who had taken advantage of the free trip given by a real estate firm to prospective purchasers of lots at Albani subdivision, and was returning to Montreal at a speed of between 20 and 30 miles an hour, when from some cause as yet unknown the engine and the three first coaches left the rails. The telescoping of the ends of the derailed coaches caused most of the fatalities, nearly all of which occurred in the first two cars. Escaping steam from the boiler of the engine, which was thrown over on its side, filled the coaches and hampered passengers in escaping. The passengers from the other cars formed a rescue brigade and worked hard to extricate the dead and injured from the wreckage. Their efforts were fruitless in the case of some of the victims whose bodies were so firmly wedged in the shattered remains of the coaches that it took a wrecking crew hours to release them.
